NEWSPAPER HISTORY
The Rockland Gazette was established in 1846. In 1874 the Courier was established and consolidated with the Gazette in 1882. The Free Press was established in 1883 and in 1891 changed its name to the Tribune. These papers consolidated March 17, 1897.

"THREE QUARTER CENTURY"

A new list of eligible members in this city for the Three Quarter Century Club is needed for this year's gathering. It is desired that all persons 75 years old send their names by mail or telephone 707 to Milton M. Griffin. This list should include old and new members alike, so even if you have belonged several years please send your name, and those of friends, to Mr. Griffin.

There is danger in carrying a courtesy too far, if you believe the following:
On a street car a man gave a woman a seat.
She faints.
On recovering, she thanked him. Then he fainted.

FIRST "PEOPLE YOU SHOULD KNOW" PRIZE WINNERS WILL BE NAMED NEXT THURSDAY

Who will be the first two victors in the "People You Should Know" Contest?
They'll be named in Thursday's Courier-Gazette.
Each issue thereafter until the contest closes two winners will be named. These winners will each receive a $2.00 or $1.00 award. The awards will be furnished by progressive merchants of Rockland.
It's easy to get in on these awards. Just read the rules printed and then answer the questions asked in the "People You Should Know" columns.
After you have done that, follow up the advantage the next issue and watch for the answers a week later.
Remember, you can answer the queries every issue. As a matter of fact those who answer every one have the best opportunity to capture the grand $15.00 award. The person having the highest total of correct answers and the most original gets the award.
There is no chance in this contest. There is nothing catchy about it. Just name in a straight manner the answers to the questions. Start now and be among those who will walk into the stores and get a valuable award.

WHERE THE PILGRIMS SET FOOT

An Interesting Day Down On Cape Cod Where New Bridges Are Crossed

(By The Roving Reporter—Second Installment)

Turning homeward from Cape Cod Canal last Sunday morning we passed through the town of Kingston which I noticed particularly because of a poster which said that Old Home Day is to be celebrated July 13. It brought back a flood of memories concerning Rockland's Old Home Weeks, which used to be so successful as to cause me to wonder why they were ever abandoned. Many older readers will recall that the States Old Home Week celebration was in Rockland, and how proudly the city acquitted itself with pageants, athletic sports and social diversions. Hundreds of former residents came to Rockland that week. Picket fences still predominate in Duxbury, Mass. but probably when one resident takes his down the others will follow suit. You know how it is—one woman has a wonderful peony bed, and everybody else in that neighborhood follows suit, but if she had planted hollyhocks everybody else on that street would have had hollyhocks. Just look around your own town and see if this is correct.

Ed Scoffs At Signs

A sign warned against crossing a long wooden bridge which obtruded itself upon our vision through the morning mists, but some warnings are just invitations to Ed, and we rolled across to find ourselves at a dead end—Duxbury Beach. The bridge had creaked dismally on the first crossing, filling me with some misgivings, but on the return trip the sound more nearly resembled derisive laughter. But what cared we—out for a holiday and such adventure as it might bring.

We were now far enough from Plymouth so that way-side signs did not deal so monotonously with Pilgrims. Here's one—"Wagon Wheels." The song's a good one, whatever they may have served at this resort. Marshfield has a nice country club, but is richer in historical association. We noted a place called Tea Rock Hill, and the inscription said that it was where Jeremiah Lowe burned tea confiscated by patriots from public and private stores in the town of Marshfield. And the public is made to learn that the citizens are very proud of the part which Daniel Webster and Gov. Edward Winslow played in that locality's enduring history.

The Inescapable Clam

Uncle Sam is playing some strange games these days. In or near Marshfield we saw a sign which read "South Shore Mosquito Control Project." If Sam really wants to fight the mosquito pest let him tackle my backyard garden.

Seituate, also rich in historical data, rather prides itself upon its sand cliffs, and is certainly loyal to the memory of those who fought in our various wars. One handsome monument was crowned with magnificent Crimson Rambler roses.

I like to make a note now and then of egg prices, as we see them posted by the roadsides, in order that poultrymen of Knox and Lincoln Counties may make their own comparison. At Seituate Sunday they were selling three dozen eggs for 89 cents.

We passed through Cohasset and Hingham, and the frequency of "fresh clams" signs is a reminder of a Penobscot River enterprise. Fresh clams and fried clams—you find these products of the flats everywhere.

Quincy Pleases The Eye
And eventually we came to Quincy, a corner of the Bay State which impressed me most favorably, but which has always been associated in my mind with the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Co., Inc. which has sent so many warships to the Rockland course for their standardization trials. I should like to have looked up my good friend S. Wiley Wakeman, general manager of that plant, but one doesn't make such calls at 5 or 6 o'clock in the morning, especially if that morning is Sunday.

So we sped on to Boston, now only slightly more awake than it was when we passed through it at 2 a. m. We breakfasted at a Childs' restaurant, which represents an old French courtyard but which is so dimly lighted that one cannot read the menu or see the files.

Fruitless Quest for "Cully"

A spasmodic sightseeing trip which took me over a wide section of Greater Boston and doubtless onto many one-way streets was personally conducted by Ed, who pointed out a dozen or more places in which he had lived or worked. We were both possessed with the desire to call upon Howell Cullinan, the news broadcaster who is such a prime favorite with Knox County radio fans—seven years with the Boston Globe and now with the Herald-Advertiser. "Cully" calls it home at the Harvard Club of Boston, located at 374 Commonwealth Avenue. Thither we made our way, but "Cully" had just left, and all efforts made by the obliging young lady at the switchboard failed to locate him. A second call an hour later was also without result.

I was determined not to quit Boston this time without having called upon Albion B. Crocker, who is better known to thousands of Courier-Gazette readers as "Boze," author of "Tenant's Harbor Days" and many other valuable communications. He is one of this paper's oldest contributors, and there is no apparent diminution in the fertility of his pen.

Mr. Crocker's residence is on Porter street, Somerville, not easy to locate if you are a stranger, and not easy to climb whether you are or not. My acquaintance with him has been mainly across the desk, and there was consequently no sign of recognition when he came to the door in response to my ring.

"You are Albion B. Crocker," said I. "I am."

"Sometimes known as Boze?" "Yes."

"Ever heard of the Roving Reporter?"

And then Mr. Crocker laughed. The identity of his Sunday morning caller had been solved.

We Make Buddie's Acquaintance

Ed and I received a most cordial welcome from Mr. and Mrs. Crocker, and the latter was anxious that we should sample one of her newly cooked pies, but this kind offer was declined as we had just broken our fast.

"Boze" has an interesting collection of autographs including one from the late ex-President Calvin Coolidge, and one from Rudyard Kipling, both signed to letters of a very interesting nature.

Exhibit B, shown to us was the Crocker's pet pigeon, "Buddie," which has been frequently mentioned in Mr. Crocker's nature yarns. Buddie is a handsome and doubtless intelligent bird, and his affection for his benefactors was shown by the contented manner in which he sits in Mrs. Crocker's lap.

I have frequently marveled at Boze's memory. It is bolstered on occasions by "Dad's Diary," but let St. George be mentioned and he can delve into the past, and out-remember even Elmer Allen. He is also a humorist and a philosopher, as seen in the recipe which he offered for a long life—"Do not exceed the feed limit."

Called Upon The Bakers

We called also upon Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Baker, formerly of Rockland, who are located at 46 Westland Avenue, Boston. Mr. Baker pointed with pride to a handsome posy garden which he has created at the rear of the apartment house, and Mrs. Baker's new blueberry pie was not to be denied. The Bakers will spend the month of August in Maine.

From Everett, Mass., to Newburyport the Newburyport Turnpike runs for 28 miles, almost as the crow flies, and riding over it Sunday afternoon we derived much pleasure in spite of mist and rain. It had not been easy to leave Boston, with a double-header baseball game on the card, but the weather was too forbidding.

At Malden Four corners Ed chuckled, and told me of the time his car had knocked a cop down. Mystery to me, sometimes, how he keeps out of jail, but as I recall it the traffic cop apologized to him for being in the way.

Westbound Traffic

The Lynnfield and Broadway railroad stations are disconsolate reminders of traffic days on the old Saugus branch.

Bossy Gillis, Newburyport's one time picturesque mayor, has never had the habit of hiding his light beneath a bushel. He still keeps very much in the public eye.

LUISA FRANCESCHI SCORES SUCCESS

Her Boston Debut Favorably Noticed By the Boston Newspapers

The story of the successful Boston debut on July 10 of Miss Luisa Franceschi, as told by the Boston Globe, reads as follows:

Musical Boston, parching under its traditional midsummer famine of any sort of good music, says the Globe writer, was able to break this fast last evening. Added to the opening of Arthur Fiedler's Esplanade Concerts, there was heard at the in full sight of the audience! Lorenzo Perlo was a melodious Duke. Rockland friends of Miss Franceschi, who sat among the large audience speak in warm commendation of the singer's achievement.

Belated Boston papers, arriving only a little before this paper goes to press, carry a number of commendatory allusions to Miss Franceschi's debut, excerpts from which are appended.

Says the Traveler: "She sang capably and deserved the enthusiastic reception she was given. The best singing of the evening came during the famous 'Caro Nome' aria. Miss Franceschi sang this difficult aria intelligently and well. The fine coloratura voice was tone-true and nicely controlled and reached the highest notes with ease. There was no evidence of forcing or strain and the final result was eminently satisfactory. In addition she proved capable of considerable histrionic range, acting naturally and capably throughout the evening."

Says the Evening American: "The star of the evening, making her American debut in opera, must surely feel gratified that for once, and perhaps because of her charming presence, an operatic performance in Boston and in midsummer met with such warm response. With charming presence, clear and true coloratura that found its first warmth and assurance in the 'Caro Nome' of the second scene, Miss Franceschi was in all ways the Gilda of the story and the music. It is a role in which she has starred often abroad, and she brings it to an unimpaired and effective performance. Hers is singing in the true bel canto style, with a pleasing depth that in the exacting moment more than fulfilled the demands of the vocally difficult score."

Says the Christian Science Monitor: "Rigoletto" in last evening's presentation was judiciously pruned with the exception of the final scene, which was given in full. In acting Mme. Franceschi's Gilda was an acceptable presentation. Vocally she was equal to the score's demands. Her voice has more body to it than is usually found in singers who are adapted to this role. The quality is smooth. The singer took her top notes clearly and distinctly. Hers was a personable Gilda."

Miss Franceschi arrived on this morning's steamer from Boston and will make an extended visit at her Rockland home.

COLLISION FATAL

Raymond G. Cross, Native of Appleton, Killed Near Belfast

Raymond G. Cross, 19, of Morrill was instantly killed while riding his motorcycle Tuesday in a head-on collision with a truck, near Head of the Tide, above Belfast.

The truck was driven by Ralph O. Brown of Brooks, who stated that he had a heavy load of logs and was driving on the left side of the road on account of the roughness when he first saw the motorcycle coming over the brow of a hill about 400 feet distant.

He turned to the right side of the road, and the motorcycle, which was coming fast, swerved to the left for some unknown reason and collided with the truck, young Cross being hurled upon its radiator and his motorcycle being smashed to bits. The truck was also somewhat damaged but Mr. Brown was uninjured. No action was taken against Brown.

Mr. Cross was born in Appleton, son of Earle A. and Amy Stover Cross, and besides his parents he is survived by three brothers.

Funeral services were held yesterday at his parents' home in Morrill. He was unmarried.

TO PUCK

I hear you, little spirit in the bushes, laughing where the heather blossoms low. Where the tiny fieldmouse softly pushes nose inquisitive and eyes aglow. Little spirit of laughter and derision, tender-hearted spirit of good luck, pranking through the dream of days Elysian. Teach me laughter, Puck!

Puck, you elf, you wisely merry fairy, what have you to do with solemn men? You so foot it, airiest of airy. That we only catch you now and then. Earnest, sombre-browed, we follow after You, who fly a-mocking from the ruck: O have a desperate need of laughter! Give us laughter, Puck!

THREE-TIMES-A-WEEK

The Lord is the strength of my life: of whom shall I be afraid?—Psalm 27:1.

LISTING THE BORES

What constitutes a popular figure, with what form of mental yardstick the public assays the men and women who for one reason or another project themselves into the light that is said to beat upon the throne, might be difficult exactly to determine. In what was called an Unpopularity Contest our English friends recently brought the matter under consideration, with a number of interesting conclusions. For example we find therein listed as Public Bore No. 1 that occasionally self-advanced figure George Bernard Shaw, a very happy conclusion, we of the western hemisphere admit. Next to that satisfactory finding appears the Swedish lady of the screen, Miss Garbo, with which we also are in agreement; and there are others. We should be interested to see carried on in our own country an inquisition of similar nature. There is an extensive field to draw upon, particularly that of the National capital, where a list of generous proportions might easily be brought to record.

And apart from these fields that spread across the entire land, are those nearer home manifestations that lend variety to the community's daily goings. It is an easy matter to place the personal estimate upon those who come athwart our routine life; but it is well in so doing to give a cast at the other side of the shield. We estimate the bore who is holding us in lengthened speech. It may be that in the same moment he is giving to us a similar once-over.

ALSO THERE ARE LOSERS

The wide publicity given to what is described as the lucky winners suggests to what an extent the Irish sweepstakes receives recognition at the hands of our own people. It is a happy sensation, we make no doubt, that issues out of the announcement that your ticket has brought a prize to you running into the hundreds of thousands. And it cost so little, say you, merely the insignificant price of a participating ticket. But it was out of other pockets. Analysis of the Irish sweeps of a little while ago showed that 99.965 percent paid their money and got nothing. This is a huge figure for the losing side to shoulder.

PROTECTED IN GOOD TIME

Citizen generally, especially those who drive the road, will unite their applause over the completion of work recently put into the safe-guarding of that stretch of highway which edges the limerock quarries at the Meadows. That happily no serious accidents of travel have issued out of the comparatively unguarded roadway may be ascribed to a kindly Providence, for it would have been the easiest thing in the world for the driven vehicle of any sort to encroach upon the slender rails meant for protection and find itself in the swift of moments, driver and contents, mixed in with the jagged bottom, scores of feet below. We share with the driver-past the sense of security that now accompanies the navigation of that long impervious bit of highway.

LISTENED TO GOV. BIRD

As pertain to the summer period, Rotary meeting yesterday saw visitors from many out of state clubs, whose presence was warmly appreciated, among them Walter S. Rounds, a former member who was given a cordial reception. The period of speaking was occupied by District Governor Alan L. Bird, who continued the story of his recent attendance upon the Rotary International Conference held in Mexico, illuminating it with many striking details that arose out of the coming together of representatives from every country, and the influence that Rotary ideals and principles are exerting in the direction of peace throughout the world. Mr. Bird has a keen sense of observation and his address was replete with valuable and interesting information.

HUNDRED DOLLARS REWARD

Norman W. Lermont, director of Knox Arboretum, visited The Courier-Gazette office yesterday with every hair of his head standing in perpendicular fashion. The cause of his ire lay in the fact that somebody had stripped bark from one of the handsome birches near the spring, presumably for the purpose of making a drinking cup. The Arboretum is now under State protection—a sanctuary for the public wherein may be preserved nature's offerings. Mr. Lermont has offered a reward of $100 for the name of the perpetrator.

THAT UTILITIES BILL

Mr. Newcombe Praises the House For the Independent Stand It Has Taken

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—After my critical remarks about the Senate for its action on the holding company bill, my New England conscience suggests that I pay my respects to the House of Representatives for its gallant fight in defending the interests of the utility investors against the "killer" clause in the bill demanded by the President.

Rarely has such a bitter, hard-fought battle been waged on the floor of either house. It is hard to understand just why so much stress was laid on this particular clause, because the mildest bill without this decapitating feature will hamstring the public utilities, just as the railroads were hamstrung by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The Administration demanded the death penalty, however, and nothing else would satisfy, so the fight raged.

The lobbyists for the power companies were accused of falsifying by the President. The lobbyists for the power companies for the most part were the thousands of letters and telegrams that have been pouring into Washington. They were backed up by a number of officials and managers of electric companies, salaried people, sent as was quite proper to present to the legislators the facts of the case and to protect as far as possible the interests of their investors.

If it is lobbying to appeal to your chosen Representatives for a "redress of grievances," at least this is a form of lobbying authorized under Amendment one of the Constitution. A corporate body unable to appear in Washington in its various units must needs send salaried officials to look after its interests.

Opposed to this lobby was the one encouraged by the administration. This one seemed like an irresistible force, but it met an immovable body when it hit the House.

Every force, threat and artifice must have been employed. Even the Quoddy dam was endangered, unless Mr. Brewster voted right. This was denied by one of the representatives who voted for the killer clause, in a statement that Mr. Brewster had not quoted the lobbyist correctly.

To one on the sidelines it wouldn't seem to make any difference whether Mr. Corcoran said to Mr. Brewster "Unless you vote right you would not make a good lawyer for the Quoddy project, or whether he said, "unless you vote right the project will not go ahead." It seems about like the difference between tweedledee and tweedledum.

The fact is that Mr. Corcoran and Ben Cohen, co-authors of this and other bills of like kind, were at work with members of the House, as they were with members of the Senate, seeking to influence legislation. They succeeded in the Senate by one vote, but failed in the House. They still have a chance in conference. Now this sort of thing is lobbying, and it makes no difference who plays the game.

The beat applied in the case so stirred the house that an investigation was started to get the facts.

This whole business of seeking the abolition of holding companies was handled in an editorial of the New York Times of July 3. It called the persecution only a matter of politics. There are more users of electricity than there are stock and bondholders, so certain politicians play on this fact. These same men may awake some day to find that the small investors have become politically minded. There are about five million people it is said who are interested financially in the utilities of this country.

This number constitutes a sizable minority, greater than the A.F. & L. and United Mine Workers combined. It is greater than the veterans lobby which comes to Washington to demand its bonus. Greater than the minority represented by the embattled farmers who recently came here out of a clear sky from the South and West to extol the beauties of the A.A.A. and to demand its continuance.

This particular lobby was publicly praised by the President. Not a falsifier or member of the Ananias Club among that group. All good fellows and no investigation started, although everyone wondered where the money came from to get such a number here and to put them up at the best hotels.

Since for the goose should be sauce for the gander. If lobbying is necessary to present your case to the Government a form of it permitted every citizen under the Constitution would seem to be a more desirable type than one in support of such schemes as the A.A.A. and this holding company bill, which non-administrative lawyers claim violate the Constitution.

The significance of the House handling this bill is not limited to the interests of the public utilities. Far from it. For the first time in two years the House demanded the right to vote its convictions, instead of playing the rubber stamp.

It may be the start of orderly gov-

THE COLBY PLAYERS

"Morning At Seven" At Camden Opera House—Darker Than That At Start

The Colby College Players, presenting "Morning At Seven" at Camden Opera House Thursday evening, showed the makings of good troupers for they carried on splendidly under the annoying handicaps which fell to their lot at the beginning of the performance. Due to some difficulty in the lighting system, there were no lights in either the body of the house or the stage, and endeavor to locate the trouble delayed the performance a good half hour. And then it was necessary to give the prologue with lighting aids from kerosene lamps and flashlights. While this naturally tended to slow up the production, the entertaining story, a comedy by John J. Pullen, Colby 1935, of the lad expelled from college sent to Aroostook to raise potatoes, was given in a pleasing and sincere manner.

In the cast were: Robert Colomy of North Vassalboro; Harold Kimball, Waterville; Louise Hinckley, Waterville; Prof. Cecil Rollins, Waterville; Wilma Stanley, Southwest Harbor; Asa Roach, Smyrna Mills; Carl Reed, Amity; Ann Trimble, Calais; Helen Kelley, Lynn, Mass.; Charles Tweedie, Waterville.

It seems to be the natural order to have character parts "walk away with the show," and this was true of "Morning At Seven," for Mr. Roach as "Percy Panter" and Carl Reed as "Old Richard Bell" were outstanding. Mr. Colomy gave a convincing performance, with the others of the cast following close behind. Rockland attendants were a bit disappointed that Mr. Tweedie, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. V. Tweedie of this city, did not have a more extended part.

Mr. Colomy directed. Kitty Rollins was stage manager and Helen Kelly, property manager. An informal reception was held to meet the cast. Patrons and patronesses were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. T. Seaverns, Mrs. Edward W. Bok, Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Chase, Mrs. W. J. Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Dodge, Mrs. C. W. Henry, Mrs. C. Wolcott Henry, Mr. and Mrs. T. Charlton Henry, Francis Gilbert, Mrs. Chauncey Keep, Lt. Com. and Mrs. William Justice Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence T. MacNeille, Mr. and Mrs. E. Kent Hubbard, Mrs. George Otis, Mr. and Mrs. Dean C. Osborne, Miss Annie Russell, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stalker, Mr. and Mrs. Edwy L. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Watson.

The production was given for the benefit of Camden Relief Association, and while waiting for the show to begin Miss Rosamond Graham, chairman, gave a brief but comprehensive explanation of the work being done by the Association.

The play was given before an audience of more than 300, the response being friendly and appreciative.

CLIMBING ALWAYS

Esten W. Porter, Former Rockland Boy, Wins a Vice Presidency

"Buntings Novelty Mart," a sales promotion guide, devotes its cover for the current issue to that former Rockland boy in whom the city feels so much pride. It is a keen business-like look which the portrait of Esten W. Porter bears, and this is what the magazine said about him:

"E. W. Porter, president of The Premium Service Co., Inc., New York, is the newly elected first vice president of the Premium Advertising Association of America, Inc."

"Having devoted 33 years to sales promotion through premium methods, no man has done more than Mr. Porter to put the premium industry on a high plane operating on sound economic principles. His corporation has served hundreds of foremost business concerns as their automatic premium department. As such his organization has purchased many millions of dollars worth of premium merchandise."

"Mr. Porter was one of the organizers of the present Premium Advertising Association of America, Inc., has long served as a director, and is a strong supporter of both the National and the Atlantic Premium Expositions."

ernment again, when bills will be written by the various committees and brought to the floor of the different bodies and given time for deliberation and exchange of views.

For the past two years it is said that practically all important bills have been written outside the legislative halls by members of the so called brain trust, and sent to the Capitol by the President, marked in effect, rush! emergency! no alterations!

A real emergency existed in this country in war time under President Wilson, but legislation followed an orderly course and plenty of time was allowed for proper consideration. With the new spirit of freedom shown by the House we have reason to hope that the period of dictatorship in this country has passed.

Thomaston 5, St. George 2

The opening game of the Knox County Twilight League was played in St. George Thursday night, when Thomaston defeated the home team 5 to 2. It was one of the most interesting contests Knox County fans have seen in a long time, and the youngsters who were making their initial appearance under the "big top" acquitted themselves most creditably.

Chummy Gray didn't look at all natural in that Thomaston uniform, with lemon colored sleeves, but his deceptive drop was natural enough and proved the undoing of St. George batters when his might have turned the tide of battle. His three-base hit, sending Flanagan across the plate was one of the longest hits ever made at St. George and would have been a four-bagger but for Polky's prompt return of the ball.

A word of praise is deserved by Bucklin, young Thomaston catcher, who accepted Gray's offerings in fine style.

Successive hits by Grafton, M. Sawyer and L. Sawyer paved the way for three Thomaston runs in the fourth inning, two scoring when M. Simmons dropped the ball after tagging. Felt for what should have been the third out.

St. George redeemed two of these runs when Grafton dropped M. Simmons' fly and Monaghan and C. Mackie came across with a double and single respectively. St. George had only four men on bases after that.

Thomaston scored the balance of its runs in the fifth inning, after Monaghan had astonished the fans by dropping a fly—something which that capable fielder seldom does. The Sawyer brothers starred brilliantly in the game, both at bat and afield. Lawrence made a beautiful one-hand foul catch, while Maurice was the whole cheese in the fifth when he caught two flies and turned one of them into a double play.

"Doug" Walker was kidded considerably for making the league's first error but more than repaid for the mishap by accepting the next nine chances.

The St. George infield made a very fine showing and one doesn't need both eyes to see that Manager Rawley is building a team which will be heard from.

Thomaston 3, Rockland 3

Thomaston cheated itself out of a manifest victory at Community Park last night by prolonging its batting streak in the ninth inning until Umpire Fowler felt obliged to call the game on account of darkness. Thomaston had sent six men across the plate in this inning, but the runs went for naught, as the score went back to even. Some of the tacticians foresaw this debacle, but the Thomaston batters had tasted blood and batted themselves right out of a victory. As a matter of fact the ninth inning should never have been started, in the opinion of most fans.

It was the first home game in the Twilight League and the attendants were frankly surprised at the fine showing made by the youngsters. It augurs well for a good series this summer.

Rockland was caught at a disadvantage for Manager Gardner still lacked his full complement of players, and two of them are temporarily out of the game because of injuries received in Thursday night's practice. But the nucleus of a good team was seen.

Lax baserunning spoiled the fine chance the locals had in the first inning when three men reached bases with none down. Wild pitching and passed balls were also extremely disastrous to the home team, but Paladino's double in the seventh, after Murgita had walked, made possible the score which saved a defeat.

Chummy Gray aided Thomaston's cause with a triple, and the fans found admiration for the young backstop Bucklin. Chuck Ellis made a fine catch of Mills' fly, and registered two nice hits. Walker had slightly the better of the pitching dual with Shirley.

Honors For Battery F—Gov. Brann Reviews 240th In Scorching Sun

The paper arrived Wednesday morning and there was the usual rush for news. And here is some special news! Battery F of Thomaston had the honor of being the first company to do escort duty. This encampment with Adjutant General Hanson arrived at 3 and the boys did themselves proud. Battery F also put on the first guard mount.

I made two trips to Preble last Wednesday, two on the ammunition detail and three trips to the airport, about 80 miles in all, as chauffeur for Major Kearns, Capt Beck and Capt. Stickney. We are two days behind in our schedule, which means a lot of extra work.

Battery H machine gunners started practice Thursday. The aviators arrived from Massachusetts and we are all ready to go! A nice shower Wednesday evening had a cooling effect, but it was about 98 here Thursday afternoon.

The inoculations came our way again Thursday. The boys are some burned up because there is no baseball but are very proud about the escort duty, as it is the first time we have been thus honored. Regards to all.

Gov. Brann and members of his staff reviewed a parade in his honor by the men and officers of the 240th Coast Artillery, Maine National Guard yesterday afternoon.

Prior to the parade and formal guard mount, Gov. Brann inspected the entire encampment and then stood nearly three-quarters of an hour greeting the individual members of the regiment.

Poor visibility interfered with the practice firing by the anti-aircraft division, a feature which was planned for the Governor's observation. This practice was resumed today.

The four giant searchlights swung into action last night as the searchlight battery began practice sighting an "enemy" plane. The Army plane, which left Scarborough Airport at 9:30 o'clock and for more than an hour soared over the government reservation, was sighted several times by the searchlight battery.

Today will be comparatively quiet at the encampment, the parade and usual band concert to be omitted. Service practice continued during the morning.

Sunday will be Organization Day at the encampment, when the former members of the 240th will return to the regiment and participate in the afternoon parade.

Baseball fans and sea lovers will get a break tomorrow when St. George and Vinalhaven baseball teams meet on the fine new island diamond. The St. George team will make the trip on the steamer W. S. White, leaving Tillson Wharf at 9 o'clock and return in the late afternoon. Special low excursion rates will prevail.

Representative Moran has been informed by Admiral H. G. Haulet, commandant of the Coast Guard, that the Treasury has asked the National Emergency Council for $27,000 for the Coast Guard Station at Burnt Island, and for $1040 for the Damariscove Island Coast Guard Station as part of a request for $266,875 for general repair and reconstruction of shore facilities in Maine.

Miss Helen Corbett, the city matron feels pretty the loss of her dog Skip. His body with holes in his side and head and a rope around his hind legs was found behind William Butler's farm on the West Meadow road Monday. Skip took his son Skip Jr. a 16-months old puppy for a run toward Kiln hill and did not return home as usual. Tuesday morning Miss Winchester of West Meadow road phoned that they had the puppy—picked it up, as it had been injured by a gunshot wound in its shoulder, and until yesterday Miss Corbett did not know what had happened to Skip. She has taken the body and buried it in her garden.

Charles N. Thurlow, D. M. D., is now associated with Dr. R. L. Stratton in his offices at 420 Main street. Dr. Thurlow has his pre-dental training at Bowdoin and his dental studies were carried through at Tufts College Dental School, specializing in children's work. Dr. Thurlow is married.

A man from Jonesport named Milford Beal went in bathing at the Underwood wharf yesterday afternoon and attracted a great amount of attention. Beal is a diver and was inspecting the piling of the Underwood wharf. His bathing suit was considerably heavier than that which was being worn by some of the bathers at Sandy Beach.

It has been announced that Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, the Radio Priest will return to the air in the fall for a series of Sunday afternoon broadcasts from the Shrine of the Little Flower in Royal Oak, Michigan. Father Coughlin's dissertations, the first of which probably will be presented on Oct. 13, will be broadcast to New Englanders through the facilities of the Yankee Network.

The familiar laugh of Dan Sullivan resounded through The Courier-Gazette office yesterday, this being one of his distinctions when he ran down from Boston to escape the heat and have a little vacation. Dan is a former member of The Courier-Gazette force, and several jolly incidents connected with his employment here were being told yesterday. Incidentally Dan was a live wire on the roller polo surface.

The annual meeting of the Knox County Association for rural Religious Education, will be held Monday, at 7:30 p. m. in the Universalist Church. The meeting will include a short program, presented by Miss Margaret McKnight, Religious Director, consisting of "A Litany of Thanksgiving" with eight boys from the Hope school, and a cantata, "The Child Jesus," with parts taken by pupils from Clark Island, Hope and East Union. Public invited.

A heifer owned by Leslie A. Ross failed to watch its step Thursday night and fell into the Engine Quarry, where its bellowing murdered the sleep of many nearby residents. How to get a heifer out of a deep quarry pit was something of a problem, but it was solved by J. Mazzeo and Richard Anderson who made a rope fast over the animal's head and towed the heifer to the northern end of the quarry where there was an excellent place for exit. The heifer was happy, the boys were triumphant and the good citizens of The Meadows are making up lost sleep.

The summer home of Dr. Neil A. Fogg was the scene of a most congenial gathering Thursday when the owner entertained friends from the city. It had been planned to have the picnic dinner on the lawn, but the showery weather compelled the gathering to beat a retreat to the house. Dr. Fogg's guests remained until 10 p. m., story telling and reminiscences being interspersed with radio music. Those present were Anthony McNamara of Eagle Rock, Va., who is visiting his former Rockland home; Dr. Fogg and son Donald, T. E. McNamara, Dr. B. E. Planders, Valentine Chisholm, Edward Chisholm, Donald Haskell, Donald Coughlin and Thomas Fleming.

A canvass is being made to obtain names of men and women eligible to belong to the Three-Quarter Century Club, and to that end ex-Senator Zelma M. Dwinall of Camden has been named as general chairman of Knox County.

He has appointed the town chairmen, who are asked to have in their hands by July 20 a list of the people in their communities who are 75 years of age or over. The list follows:
 Leslie Dyer, Vinalhaven.
 Harry Edgcomb, Appleton.
 Carrie Hodgman, Camden.

Huntley-Hill Post, V.F.W., will have a beano party Tuesday at 7:30 at the hall. These parties are proving very popular.

Norman Waldron of the faculty of Manlius (N. Y.) Military School goes to Dexter Monday to be instructor at the Wassookeag School for the summer session.

Knox Lodge, L.O.O.F., will observe its 50th anniversary Aug. 5 at the hall. Plans are being made for the observance, to bring together Odd Fellows and grand officers from all over the State.

A picnic at Oakland Park Wednesday brought to a successful close the Daily Vacation Bible School which has been in session at the Methodist Church since June 24. A public demonstration of the work done in the school was given Tuesday night before a large and appreciative audience. There was also an exhibition of handwork which included, in addition to the note books and other correlated handwork, crayon, wall plaques, baskets and sewing projects. Rev. Charles E. Brooks, the pastor, had general charge of the school. He was assisted by these efficient teachers and helpers: Mrs. Brooks, Miss Amy Sherman of Rochester, Miss Louise Dolliver, Mrs. Thelma Stanley, Miss Helen Mattson, Miss Helen Kennison, Miss Carol Gardner, Miss Faith Lurvey, Miss Ruth Marston, Mrs. Bertram Gardner, Miss Margaret Ellis and Mrs. Lyla Tibbets. There were classes for all age groups, with a varied program of activities adapted to each departmental group. The curriculum included Bible and character stories, temperance and missionary instruction, dramatization, singing, handicraft and directed play. The average daily attendance was most gratifying, being 117 children, 12 teachers and helpers.

There are stars that go out in the darkness,
 But whose silvery light shineth on;
 There are roses whose perfume still lingers
 When the blossoms are faded and gone.
 There are hearts full of light and sweet-ness,
 When no longer their life current flows;
 Still the good lives live on with the living,
 Like the souls of the star and the rose.

FRANCES STORER
 Frances, daughter of Earl E. and Lydia (Tracy) Storer, died Sunday at her home on South Main street, after a brief illness from ruptured appendix. The untimely death of this lovely and promising young woman brought unusual sorrow to the community.

Frances was born in Bath on July 8, 1918, but lived for the greater part of her life in Rockland. She was a member of next year's senior class at Rockland High School, and one of its highest ranking students. She was very active in the High School Girls' Glee Club where her beautiful contralto voice played a most important part—indeed, it was a voice that held much promise for the future. She was also a member of the Congregational Sunday School and of the Comrades of the Way. In school and church, everywhere, she was a general favorite, not only through her musical gift but for her friendly charm and delicious sense of humor. She is survived by her parents and three brothers, Edward, John and Alfred; her grandmother Tracy of Mt. Desert and Grandfather Edward Storer of Warren.

Funeral services were held from the late residence Wednesday, bringing many relatives from away, in addition to many townspeople, among whom were the Glee Club, in a body, accompanied by the director, Mrs. Esther Rogers; teachers and representatives from her class in school and from the Congregational organizations, Rev. Corwin H. Olds, pastor of the Congregational Church, paid a beautiful tribute in his remarks. Bearers were Jack Garnett, Willis Kinney, Wilbur Ames and Maurice Ginn. The floral tributes were very beautiful. Interment was in the Storer lot in the Goshen cemetery, Waldoboro.

A VALUED SUBSCRIBER

Capt. F. L. Brown of the Dredge "Michie" sticks To Old Home Paper Under date line of Raymond the Aberdeen (Washington) Daily World prints this dispatch concerning a former Rockland man:

"The dredge Michie is docked at the port of Willapa Harbor undergoing boiler inspection by W. A. Hill, inspector of hulls and boilers, from Aberdeen. The big dredge is being given some minor repairs while tied up."

Capt. F. L. Brown, veteran skipper of the Michie, is a former Willapa Harbor man. He is a native of Rockland, Me., and still subscribes to the Rockland Courier-Gazette, which carried the notice of his birth, 56 years ago. Captain Brown has been at sea for 40 years, 23 of them in the government service.

"During the World War he sailed in shipping board vessels of the merchant marine. Recently his dredge has been assigned to Alaskan and Hawaiian waters."

"The north channel of Willapa Harbor, where the Michie is now working, was originally the main channel of the port, Captain Brown says. It has never been dredged. Capt. Brown thought the Michie might be on the present job until September."

In a letter to a member of The Courier-Gazette staff Capt. Brown states that he was reading his old home paper when the Raymond reporter called.

CHURCHES

SERMONETTE

They Sang Hymns

When Abraham in obedience to God's call left the city of Ur at the head of the Persian gulf he did not go west across the Arabian desert, for his herds and people had to have subsistence, and farther, it was too dangerous. He went north into Mesopotamia to Haran, thence around the head of the desert and south through Palestine and eventually into Egypt. He left a city of culture and a very highly developed civilization to wander in the wilderness and lead the Hebrew people into many experiences, and strange contacts with other great civilizations. Thus they became familiar with Babylonian, Assyrian and Egyptian customs as well as the ways of many lesser people.

They learned to sing hymns. "By the rivers of Babylon, there we sat down; yea we wept when we remembered Zion. We hanged our harps upon the willows in the midst thereof, for they that carried us away captive required of us a song; sing us one of the songs of Zion. How shall we sing the Lord's song in a strange land?" Yet sing they did, and their Psalter was the hymn book of the second temple after the exile—one hundred and fifty Psalms that have brought peace and comfort to thousands of troubled hearts. We know they sang hymns in Christ's day, for on the night upon which he was betrayed we read that after the last supper, "When they had sung a hymn they went out." It is the conclusion of every communion service. The early church sang hymns for it is the complaint of Pliny to Trajan that the Christians had been accustomed to come together on a fixed day before daylight and to sing responsively a song to Christ as God."

At First Church of Christ, Scientist, corner of Cedar and Brewster streets, Sunday services are at 10:30 and the subject of the Lesson Sermon will be "Sacrament." Sunday School is at 11:45. Wednesday evening testimony meeting is at 7:30. The reading room is located at 400 Main street, and is open week days from 2 until 5 p. m.

"A Question Dealing With Our Whereabouts" will be the morning topic of Rev. Charles E. Brooks at Pratt Memorial Methodist Church.

To Serve You Better

The memorial you select is naturally intended to portray the devotion and esteem which you feel for one departed. Through it you wish to express your finest, most earnest sentiments. In it you place your trust for the perpetuation of a name.

These things—the personal reasons which prompt you to erect a monument—are not temporary and do not lose their importance. The memorial which represents them should therefore be equally permanent and equally significant. It should, like the memory it keeps, be a thing of sincere, perfect beauty.

Realizing the importance of these things, we have set up in our organization a high ideal of service. From the creation of the design to the final erection of the work, every step is carefully made to add the most of beauty and quality. Regardless of its size or type, the memorial you select from us will be faultlessly and deservingly built, yet its cost will not be increased in any respect.

YOUNG ENDEAVORERS

Some of Their Activities In Knox County Are Here Summarized

The cantata "The Child Jesus" will be sung by the older members of the schools of Clark Island, Hope Corner and East Union, at the annual session of the Association next Monday evening, in the Universalist Church in Rockland. The text of the cantata is from the Bible, and the music is by Mary Houts-Flagg.

Friends of the aim of this Association will be interested in a few brief items concerning recent work. At Clark Island the officers of the Christian Endeavor Society are: President, Doris Caven; secretary, Marian Morrison; treasurer, Doris Malmstrom; prayer meeting chairman, Catherine Caven; missionary chairman, Shirley Johnson; look-out chairman, Victor Blomberg; social chairman, Kenneth Malmstrom. A candy sale recently held paid nearly $13 toward the fund for a new ceiling for the church. The C. E. has charge of the vesper service; and a recent guest speaker was Rev. H. I. Holt of Warren. Mrs. Caven is pianist in the Sunday School, and also has a class of girls with a frequent record of 100 percent attendance. The Sunday School hour is 8:30 in the morning; an early hour, but necessary as Miss McKnight's school at East Union meets at 10.

Two months ago the Junior Christian Endeavor organized in Hope, with 14 members. At the first business meeting the social committee did fine work, making and carrying out their own plans for games and refreshments; this committee is Mary Herrick, chairman, with Estelle Beverage and Thelma Brownell. The president of this active society is Wilfred Hobbs; Dorothy Beverage is secretary; Clara Brownell, Dana Herrick and Vinal Hardy are committee chairmen.

At the Head of the Lake in Hope a week-day Bible school has been conducted the past three weeks on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Nineteen boys and girls are enrolled here, including every child over four years in the community; and through July 2d there were 12 with a perfect attendance record.

STARTS SUNDAY AT THE STRAND

Based on the best selling novel by Alice Tisdale Hobart, "Oil For the Lamp of Chint," Sunday, Monday, Tuesday

The picture sweeps from the snow wastes of Manchuria, through picturesque Chinese cities and villages to the torrid interior. There are shots also in the cherry blossom land of Japan and in New York.

Cameras were sent to Manchuria early in 1934, to make atmosphere

Department Junior Vice Commander Oliver R. Hamlin has been appointed chairman of the membership committee with Austin Brewer, Jack Kennedy, Nat Berliawsky, Ted Collette, John Gustin, Frank McDonald, Ralph Nutt, Charles Schofield and William Widdecombe as recruiting officers. All veterans who have seen overseas service are eligible. For full information see any of the above names or be present at the next regular meeting Aug. 12.

The Post is hard at work now to make money for the next department encampment to be held in Rockland next June. Comrade Jack Kennedy, chairman of the entertainment, has booked a carnival for next month to show in Rockland, the proceeds of which will be used towards the encampment.

The post has 51 members and it is hoped that the number will be increased to 100 this year. This will be hard to accomplish, as there are only about 65 veterans in Rockland eligible, who do not already belong. To become a member of this outfit you have to show you were in Foreign Service in time of war. Veterans fall in line and help win the bonus and other veteran legislation.

Charles Hill has been elected officer of the day and John Gustin has been elected Post chaplain for the remainder of the year.

Any veteran in Knox County who wishes to enter the Veterans C.C.C. Camp can do so by getting in touch with Commander Hewitt, Old County road, Rockland.

The next Department Council meeting is to be held at Bangor, Aug. 4. Members who wish to make this trip should see Comrade Hamlin.

With more than two months remaining of its fiscal year, the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States has organized 358 of the 365 new local units assigned as its 1934-35 quota.

Comrades Oliver R. Hamlin and Frank McDonald were elected as delegates to the National Encampment to be held at New Orleans, Sept. 15-20.

The bonus issue will head the Veterans of Foreign Wars program at the National encampment in New Orleans this year.

WILLOW WOMAN

[For The Courier-Gazette]
Emerald's her color, or the glint of gold. The daisy's heart, the soft and uncurled leaf. And running in the wind she seems to Summer about her like a handkerchief of satin or of silk. Behind the timber And mortar of a house she is not one To be as laughing or to be as limber As when her days mean mowing in the sun. Autumns her season. Then her colors blend— Green is half gold and gold becomes half green. And she, beneath some bough that leans to bend Its weight of leaves, stands pensive as a queen. Hushed suddenly as though a breeze might change Her to a willow, emerald and strange. Harold Vinai.

Hollywood's Dream Girl Makes Dreams Come True

GREEN-EYED, pink-cheeked Virginia Verrill, Hollywood's torrid blues singer who had always dreamed of being a great radio star, believes that dreams do come true—when you make them!

"Vee," as her Hollywood friends call her, who is not yet out of high school, has just signed a contract as soloist on an Eastern program which is heard Friday nights from 8:00 to 8:30 P. M. (E.D.S.T.) over the WABC-Columbia network.

Up until six years ago, Virginia Verrill had scarcely sung a note... that is, when anybody could hear her, because the boys she played with teased her about having a voice that was "down in her boots." But it was that same rich, almost guttural quality of her voice that brought her film fame at the age of 13 when she doubled for Barbara Stanwyck in the song "Ten Cents A Dance." Then more film jobs came her way, and finally a chance on the radio where Columbia heard her and lured her Eastward.

Virginia is a storybook character if ever there was one—as unbelievable when you talk to her face to face, as when you read about her. Her poise is remarkable. There was, for instance, her first appearance in public as an amateur blues singer, stress at the age of 12 when she forgot her lyrics, but ad libbed like a veteran.

And "mike" fright? Never! She loves it.

One of her newest hits on the screen is in "Reckless," doubling for the voice of Jean Harlow.

Success in Hollywood or New York has given Virginia Verrill no illusions of grandeur. She's still as unspoiled as the average young girl who has been well brought up. Has never been away from her mother

Martha Easton of Arlington, Mass., are at their summer home here for a few weeks.

Charles Davis, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hooper, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wiley, Mrs. Lucy Smith, Byron Davis and Frank Harris attended the funeral services held Monday for Ezekiel Jones at Port Clyde.

TREMONT

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Nelson of Somerville, Mass., with their sons, Lewis and Leslie, and Mrs. Nelson's mother, Mrs. Lizzie Benson, arrived last week. Mr. Nelson has returned home but will join his family later at the Latty cottage where they are located for the summer.

Mrs. Clarence Smith preached Sunday at the Tremont church in the absence of Rev. Mr. Hyde who is on vacation.

Mrs. Edmund Howe and Miss Harriet Williams motored recently to even for a day. Loves to bake chocolate cakes for her dad... although she never eats sweets herself and never drinks anything alcoholic. (Maybe that accounts for her peaches and cream complexion.) Her pet hobby is collecting birds, live ones, and she has so many she's lost count, but vaguely thinks it's around 300. She's determined to be a great radio star, but admits she's homesick for Hollywood, her birds and her police dog. And now she's a star on "The Soony Sketchbook."

"The recipe for my success?" Virginia pondered. "It sounds too trite, but really, most of it is due to hard work, plus a kind of 'freak' voice I happened to be born with."

Rockland and were accompanied home by their cousin, Mrs. Josephine Baker, who visited them for a few days.

Mrs. Roy Jordan (Evelyn Kittredge) of Bar Harbor, with her young son, Paul, is passing a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kittredge.

Fight High Living Costs 4 Ways with a

Westinghouse Streamline REFRIGERATOR

Now---
A 5th Way
2c Electricity!

Everyone is talking about higher food costs. Eggs... butter... meat... fresh vegetables... are up from 10% to 40% over last year. But there's an easy way to combat these higher prices. No sacrifices—no lowering of living standards. Just take advantage

1 QUANTITY BUYING 2 "STOCKING UP" ON BARGAIN DAYS 3 MAKING MORE USE OF "LEFTOVERS" 4 SAVING ON REFRIGERATION COSTS

You save money by purchasing your foods in larger quantities at lower prices and storing them safely in your Westinghouse Refrigerator. Use them as needed. Buy larger cans... use part of the contents... save the rest. Your monthly savings from this source should average at least 5% of your food bill... from $1.00 to $3.50 a month.

Most stores offer "specials" on certain days of the week. By doing your shopping largely on these days, you can make surprising savings. No worry about spoilage on what you buy—your Westinghouse Refrigerator will keep everything fresh. It means fewer trips to the store—and should save another 5% of your food bill... from $1.00 to $3.50 a month.

Food spoilage, preventable with Westinghouse Refrigeration, costs the average family at least 1c per person per meal. Bits of food which must be thrown out under ordinary conditions may be kept and made over into tasty dishes when you have a Westinghouse. On a conservative estimate, your savings from this source should be... from $1.00 to $4.00 a month.

APPEALS TO ALL AGES

Musical Comedy "Listen To Me" At Washington Next Week

The musical comedy "Listen To Me" which will be presented in the Washington Grange Hall July 17 and 18, has been progressing smoothly under the direction of Miss Eleanor Crandall.

The part of Mr. Banks, the hotel manager, will be played by Norman Fradd, while Ervile Bartlett will take the part of Elbert Twiss, Banks' somewhat absent minded and befuddled guest. Both men will be remembered for their highly commendable comedy work in previous shows given in Washington. Dick Marshall and Alice Richards, who are materially interested in the hotel and incidentally in each other, will be played by Elizabeth Mitchell and George Hayward.

Other parts of the play are taken by Marian Loomis, Talbot Johnston, Francis Crooker, Clifton Flanders, Marguerite Lincoln and Ralph Calkin. The dancing chorus comprises Laura Roberts, Sue Fradd, Clara Ripley, Eleanor Sukeforth, Lena Johnson, Anna Sukeforth, Peggy Murphy, Harriet Ripley, Lucille Nash and Lydia Austin.

"Listen To Me" is not a musical revue, as some believe, for it does not consist of a series of sketches and musical numbers. Rather, it is a very humorous farce-comedy, with a clever plot and interesting musical numbers. In the thousands of towns in which "Listen To Me" has been staged since its appearance 18 months ago, children have formed no small part of the audience. The comedy appeals to all ages.

Between the two acts of the show, there will be twenty minutes of varied specialties, one of which will be little Peggy Murphy in an attractive dance number. The curtain will rise at 8 standard time, for both performances. After the show on Wednesday evening there will be more than two hours of dancing to a popular Belfast orchestra.

CLARK ISLAND

Sunday school here will be at 8:30 a. m.; vesper service at 6:30 p. m. The Epworth League of the Pratt Memorial Church of Rockland will be in charge of the meeting. The president, Charles Ellis, will lead. All are invited to attend this service.

GLENCOVE

Harbor Light Chapter, O.E.S., of Rockport held a picnic Tuesday at the orchard of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Humphrey. After the bountiful supper, the evening was delightfully passed at the Humphrey home with singing and instrumental music. Mr. Humphrey holds the office of patron and Mrs. Humphrey that of Ruth in this chapter. The latter is now on vacation from her duties at the Senter-Crane office in Rockland.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Small and family of Gray were callers Sunday on Mr. Small's mother, Mrs. Georgia Small.

Charles L. Gregory is engaged in electric wiring at the Whitney Cabins near Ballard Park.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sanger of Lowell, Mass., are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Malcolm Humphrey.

William K. Clinton is caretaker at the Clifford Smith cottage, Mrs. Smith has a high-blooded saddle horse this season, the care of which will not be new work to Mr. Clinton as he has had broad experience in caring for horses.

Mrs. Iree Packard, Mrs. Lizzie Gregory, Mrs. Alice Gregory, Mrs. Minora Blodgett and Mrs. Arthur Smith are occupying the Alvah W. Gregory cottage at Bayside for a few days.

NORTH HAVEN

Announcement of Engagement The engagement of Miss Janet Woodbury to Elston Francis Cooper of Boston, was announced recently at a luncheon by Miss Woodbury for a group of friends at her summer home at Panther Pond. The marriage will take place in August.

Miss Woodbury is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard H. Woodbury of Melrose street, Portland and a graduate of the Deering High School and Miss Wheelock's Kindergarten School in Boston. For two years she has held a teaching position at Harrison. Mr. Cooper is a graduate of the U. of M., and is a member of Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman F. Cooper of this town, and is in business in Boston.

Dr. Walter P. Conley, Rockland optometrist, will be at his new office in Coombs block, Vinalhaven, Tuesday, July 16—9:30 a. m. to 7:30 p. m.—adv.

SOUTH THOMASTON

Miss Helen Carlson of Rockland, who has served many years as missionary in China, conducted the services in the chapel Sunday night.

Stanton Sleeper was home over the Fourth and weekend.

Mrs. Oscar Bassick has employment at Bancroft Training School in Owl's Head.

It is hoped there will be a generous response to the call for food for the supper to be held Friday night. The entertainment in the evening consists of excellent numbers by out-of-town artists and the one act farce "Monkey Shines in a Doctor's Office." The monkey dance by Maurice Rack-son guests at the SamOset, motored to Boston this week to attend the debut of Luisa Francheschi who sang the role of Gilda in Rigoletti. The Criterion Club of New York of which Mrs. Hill is president, sponsored Miss Francheschi.

Miss Anne Logan of Brooklyn and sister, Miss Florence Logan of Brooklyn, will arrive today for their annual sojourn.

A campfire supper at Lake Megunticook, a tennis tournament and a water sports program at the outdoor swimming pool are among the events planned for the coming week in addition to the regular entertainment program.

Charles J. Fisenlohr of Philadelphia entertained friends yesterday at a luncheon and cruise on the Penobscot Bay aboard his yacht the Charmarie.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Goldsborough of Philadelphia are arriving this weekend to visit Mr. and Mrs. Earl M. Anderson at the Forest Farm cottage on the SamOset estate. Dr. Joseph T. Beardwood, Mr. J. Scott Fowler and Mr. William R. Collins are returning from Philadelphia to join their families for the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Willard of Summit, N. J., and daughter, Miss Ruth Willard, are expected this weekend to remain for the Summer also Dr. and Mrs. P. C. Boomer of Chicago who will stay some time before going on to the Mt. Kinross at Moosehead Lake.

JOHN O. STEVENS

* CONFIDENCE! A big word in this world of ours, and the name "Burpee" has won the confidence of folks all through this east coast territory. John O. Stevens, the man-at-the-wheel of the Burpee Furniture Co., is the fourth generation in direct line to continue the business established in 1804 by N. A. & S. H. Burpee. It started as an Undertaking and Furniture business, and has always held the unit intact. Edgar Burpee was at the helm for years, and in 1920, Mr. Stevens took over the responsibilities. The furniture store provides you with dependable furniture for as much or as little as you wish to spend—full value and quality always included, and their experienced judgment is always helpful. The Undertaking end of the business has endeared this firm to more families than they ever suspect, because they go to all kinds of effort to make the going easier for others. They have carefully recorded burials for over a century and a quarter with other important information, covering all cemeteries, and include these records among their priceless possessions. Both John and Emily Stevens are graduates of the New England College of Anatomy at Boston. Each is equally active, and neither recognizes time or effort when they can help some one. Alden Ulmer has been actively associated with the Undertaking part of the business forty years. Entering the employ of this firm when a boy Mr. Burpee quickly noticed his unusual qualification and from that day his life's work began. His artistry in undertaking work is highly recognized all over the country. Arthur Andrews has been employed by this firm for fifteen years, working with Mr. Stevens and Mr. Ulmer in the Undertaking part of the business. Needless to say that this capable young man has thoroughly learned the technique and care that is always used at Burpee's. The first bell John Stevens ever heard was the ship's bell. That was when he was seven weeks old, and the sea became his boyhood playground. He still loves it—that and the air, because he sails them both. His days are too short; rather turn the clock ahead than back; never dilly-dallies; likes circus and monkeyshines; never makes you tired, and—never lets you down.

Phone 450 and ask: What is the most important community service he renders?

ERNEST HOUSE-C. AUSTIN SHERMAN

* IN EVERY city, in every business, there is one outstanding firm, and in the electrical business of Rockland territory, it is House-Sherman, Inc., 442 Main Street. They will wire anything from a door bell to a power house, including the Syndicate Block or Strand Theatre. That department is where "Bob" House rules the waves. They handle Philco, Grunow, General Electric and Crosley Radios, and service every set made—and that's where "Aught" Sherman shines. Airo, if a Maytag Washer is one of your ambitions, or a Grunow or Crosley Electric Refrigerator, make tracks for their store as soon as you read this, and they'll help you to realize your ambition. Bob House first broke the curfew in Rockland. Water boy for his Dad, then Superintendent for the Power Company, earned his first dime, and scouting through the country back of a steering wheel is his best fun. "Aught" Sherman first kicked the slats out of his cradle in Camden. Picked Red Astrachan apples, split them, polished them beautifully and sold them—for his first circus money, and he could almost catch a whale with a bent pin—he's that fond of fishing. He's been a radio bug since he first intercepted the SOS calls of the sinking Titanic. Was Chief Radio Operator of Atlantic Squadron of Destroyers during the war, and could make a radio behave in his sleep. He's no dabbler—wades right into things and always has "a word" for it. Bob eats peanuts at the circus, doesn't care for boon-doggling; not smart-alecky, and—shucks, everyone likes them both!

Phone 721 and ask: What has built their success?

TENANT'S HARBOR

Well, the Fourth of July has come and gone and here's hoping we shall all be here a year from today. Henry Patefson has some of the finest strawberries in his garden that one could wish for—a new variety. They are luscious. A two-masted vessel was in the harbor over the Fourth. Sailing ves-

VESTER A. LEACH

* DID it ever occur to you how difficult it is to create something "different" and associate high class quality with it? Well, that is exactly what Vester A. Leach has succeeded in doing at his Women's Specialty Shop, 366 Main Street, where you can supply every need of a woman's wardrobe. Sports frocks, evening wear, business togs, cool, attractive homey dresses, the daintiest of lingerie, accessories—he has them all and at values well worth your attention. He started a little business in a very small way a good many years ago. Since then he has increased his space twice; bought the block; added new departments; until now, his store competes favorably with stores in much larger cities, and in addition he is always studying the special needs of our Rockland folks. "Vesper" shot down from a lucky star at Rockport, and Rockland has been home base ever since he can remember. Helped his Daddy in the sewing machine business for his first stick of candy money, and his very important words in his fun dictionary are—"Fish" and "hunt." He is proud of his force of eight courteous, efficient employees. Fair treatment to everyone and close personal attention are the rungs in his success ladder. He never chalks up a grudge; a gleaner for what's new; is as real as the pine forests of Maine; moves surely onward like a double-headed freight train, and is always putting a rainbow around someone's shoulders. Welcome, Vester Leach, to our Four Star crowd.

Phone 133 and ask: How many years has he been taking care of women's needs in Rockland?

WILLIAM SANSON

* WE ARE now sketching that is prepared to look after your comfort the year around. In the summer through their wholesome, dependable ice service, bringing you the breezes of the north, and in the winter, through their quality coal service, bringing balmy remembrances of summer warmth. A timely tip this minute is—order your coal from them now, and relieve your mind of future worry. The Rockland Coal Company has been making warm friends here a long time. Their "Blue Coal" is rated the best coal mined in the heart of the Pennsylvania anthracite region, by those who know coal. They also handle "Cler Coal," and you will have a hard time finding coal that will excel either of them, any way you want to figure it. Their drivers are courteous and accommodating, and promptness is one big policy of this firm. A new department here is icing refrigerators for the shipment of fish, and it is fast becoming a tremendous factor of convenience and helpfulness for our fishermen. William Sanson, (Bill, to you) rolled in one morning on a high tide at Rockland. Dug dandelion greens for his first important cash. His cottage in the old pines at Crawford Lake and a chance to hook some land locked salmon is his thrill. He's a fair-play member; if you like action—you'll like him; has two broad shoulders and a hustler's hands; can pack the air with dynamite; his smile is as contagious as the measles. He looks ahead—sees benefits for his home town as well as himself, and there's a big streak of co-operation in his make-up.

Phone 72 and ask: What year and month did he become connected with this firm?

Gallens Were Bound To Reach Rockland and Escaped From Flooded City

John A. Gallen of Cumberland, Md., was a resident of this city back in 1909. That was a long time ago, and Mr. Gallen lived here only a short time, but he became enamored of the place and very fond of these citizens. And this he is impressing upon our people in the course of the fortnight's vacation which he is spending here.

"It seems like an old home town," Mr. Gallen told a Courier-Gazette reporter, adding that there has been a great deal of improvement here since he went South.

Mr. Gallen established the Prudential Insurance office in this city, and his right hand man was Daniel Munro, who accompanied him on a visit to this office Thursday.

"Dan was a wonderful asset to the office," said Mr. Gallen.

The office, by the way, was then located in Kimball block, and the salesmen besides Messrs. Gallen and Munro were Alfred Crockett, Edgar Smith, Edward Wotton, George Ladd, Frank P. Harding and James J. Stuart. Several of these assistants have visited Mr. Gallen since he located in the South.

Mr. Gallen retired from the insurance business five years ago, having given valuable service to the Western Maryland district as superintendent.

As a sort of a plaything in his spare time Mr. Gallen has developed a small city park, about 200x100 feet in size, and it is one of the garden spots of Cumberland.

Mr. Gallen is accompanied by his wife and grandson, and they are glad to be in Rockland for several reasons, one of them being that they were in Binghamton, N. Y., at the time of the cloudburst. They found the city in darkness, and without water as the water mains had burst. Everything was in confusion. The Gallens were told that there was no way of making their exit from the city, but they took a chance with the one remaining bridge—and here they are, wishing their stay was going to be two years instead of two weeks.

Tenants Harbor Days

Just an item from Dad's diary, Sept. 8, 1885: Worked 10 hours on Sch. Levi Hart, caulking on decks and from her copper up. She looks well for a vessel of her age, 12 years.

Applying the rule-of-three to that problem we get the result that the aforesaid member of the maritime fleet of the Harbor had been buffeting the tiny wavelets around Hatteras since A. D. 1873. As Dad did the caulking on her when she was built, he was quite well acquainted with her. When, or where, was her demise I know not, but I do know of her "breasting old ocean's arms," as the poet calls it. In the vernacular of the 70's she was launched, or going back to an earlier day, "there she schoons." Anyway she reached the briny.

The lower 70's was the era of the three master. The R. F. Hart was built up The Creek in 1869, and I think she was a three-master. (If that is not correct the "Wise Men of the East" who do pass on such matters will correct me, I am sure). Then followed in rapid succession this list of schooners: Annie Jones, Earl H. Potter, G. W. Andrews, Hattie N. Fuller, Euphemia A. Hayes, Levi Hart, Sadie Willett, M. K. Rawley and Dave E. Parkhurst.

The boom bursting in 1929 and letting the stocks go down river was nothing new; it burst in the 70's and let the schooners go to sea, and you couldn't give a piece of vessel property away, let alone sell it. Hard pine freights of $14 per M dropped to almost nothing, and there was no call for hard pine. The schooners had all been built.

How few there are remaining who remember that fleet, and even fewer who ever commanded, or sailed in one of the schooners. It is said that before Gen. Lew Wallace started to write "Ben Hur" he visited every large library in the world to find out exactly how a trireme was rigged. (Webster: trireme—a galley or vessel with three benches or ranks of oars on a side). Soon it will be the same for schooners. Mr. Webster described a schooner thus: A vessel with two masts, whose mainsail and foresail are suspended by gaffs like a sloop's mainsail and stretched below by booms.

Folks, meet the schooner! Boze Somerville, Mass., July 10

GUARDIANS OF OUR COAST

What our lightkeepers and coast guardsmen are doing to protect coastwise shipping by day and by night. The day's news from many lonely outposts along Maine's waterfront.

I will depart! O steamer, swaying rope and spar,
Lift anchor for exotic lands that lie afar!
A weariest, outworn by cruel hopes,
still clings
To the last farewell handkerchief's last beckonings
And are not these the masts inviting storms, not these
That an awakening wind bends over wrecking seas,
Lost, not a sail, a sail, a flowering isle,
ere long?
But, O my heart, hear thou, hear thou
the sailors' song!

Portland Head

Just a word after the Fourth and what a busy time that day always proves to be.

A circus and no parade is just what happened here recently. When the new book "Lighthouses of the Maine Coast and Men Who Keep Them," by Robert Thayer Sterling, arrived there was excitement galore, and why not? There are over 200 pages telling about nearly every light station on our rock-bound coast, and the book has over 50 illustrations. The story is true to life on the ocean wave and so real you can visualize the places as you read, and almost scent the salt air. Save your pennies, boys, and purchase one of these books at your earliest convenience—you'll enjoy it. Children will like the tale for it's about a dog, and when company arrives if they find light house life too monotonous show them the poetry about "Brass Works" and they will get a kick out of it.

Our boys have pitched a tent and await favorable weather before moving in. Mrs. Martha Sterling and son Robert were weekend guests of Mr. Charles Sterling at Peaks Island. They were joined by R. T. Sterling Sunday afternoon.

Rev. and Mrs. H. G. Clarke of South Portland Heights called recently on F. O. Hill and family. Fort Williams is a busy place these days with the 240th Coast Artillery Maine National Guard in full swing.

Mrs. E. H. Robinson and son John of Belleville, N. J., arrived on the S. S. Florida July 5 and are visiting the Hills. Mrs. Robinson left by bus Monday for Worcester, Mass., where she will visit her mother who is ill. John is staying in Maine for the summer.

Good Timers met Wednesday with Mrs. Adora Hill. Lunch was served at noon and the remainder of the day was enjoyed watching activities of the 240th Coast Artillery.

A picnic party of 10 enjoyed a quiet Fourth here. W. C. Dow of Portland set forth one of his famous clam chowders. In the party outside of the Lighthouse families were Mr. and Mrs. Dow and son Richard, and Arthur Harlow of South Portland. In the afternoon Mrs. Dow, Mrs. Sterling and Mrs. Hill went on a ride, taking in the beaches from here to Old Orchard.

We were grieved to learn of the sudden death of Capt. Christopher Hansen of Machiasport, former Keeper of Cross Island Coast Guard Station. It had not been a year since his retirement from the government service. We extend heartfelt sympathy to his wife and family.

Jasper Cheney, second assistant, recently went on four days' leave, passing the Fourth with his family. His son Forest, graduated from Lubec High School in June and is enlisting in the CCC Camp. Each year there seems to be one or two less here, as the children grow older and find employment ashore. We miss them with their games and noise, as we are few in number.

The Keeper recently received a letter from his son, Irvin, who is stationed at Isles of Shoals Coast Guard Station. Irvin has just returned from the rifle range in Massachusetts. It was his first attempt at shooting in public and he made "sharpshooter." He thinks he may do better next time.

Our gardens are not looking as well as usual, due to so much wet weather. The weeds have taken possession while the ground has been too soft to work in.

After several pleasant days, we have some fog and rain for a change. Summer people are coming to the Island now as the Novelty and Balmi Days (excursion boats) are on daily schedule again.

Mr. Lunt and Mr. Miller, carpenters, have been shingling the house and other buildings at the station and are now making similar repairs at Manana.

The buildings at this station are looking fine with newly shingled roofs and a fresh coat of paint.

Asst. Supt. Sampson visited the station recently on government business.

Asst. Keeper and Mrs. Batty of Two Bush Light are with their daughter Mrs. F. E. Singer at Manana for a visit.

A ball game was enjoyed by several people here recently.

Professor France has arrived at the Brown cottage and is busy getting the tennis court in shape.

Keeper and Mrs. Woodward accompanied by Keeper and Mrs. Charles Allen of Marshall's Point Light and their son Iva were visitors at Rockland Saturday, making the trip in Keeper Allen's car. A pleasant trip, and a fine dinner were enjoyed at the lighthouse.

Mrs. Woodward's sister, Mrs. L. L. Johnson and children, have been visiting at the Light for the past week, returning to Portland Friday.

Wild strawberries have been on our menu this week. They are quite plentiful on both islands.

Several yachts were anchored in the harbor over the holiday.

Many people have visited the light this week, and we are always glad to have them come.

Regards to everyone along the coast.

The Cuckolds

Hello, everyone along the coast! The weather has changed and we are having some nice days again.

Leon Alley of Prospect Harbor recently visited with Keeper and Mrs. Foss.

Visitors at the station last week were Mr. Cameron, son Raymond, and father, Mr. Hayes; Dr. J. R. True and Mr. Sayward.

The tender Hibiscus called at the station Friday, leaving us lumber with which to repair the slip.

Keeper Foss was a business visitor Friday in Boothbay Harbor.

Mr. Samson, assistant superintendent, called at the station Wednesday.

Keeper Foss was called to Machias by the illness of his mother, who is 73 years old. He was accompanied by Mrs. Foss and family. Enroute they called at Brookline where they spent the night with their daughter, Mrs. Albert Anderson.

Our coal was landed at the station recently by Pierce and Hartung of Boothbay Harbor.

Mrs. Foss and family and Mrs. Seavey and family attended the movie "Our Little Girl" with Shirley Temple, Monday at Boothbay Harbor.

Newagen Inn has opened for the summer.

This completes our story for the present. Best of luck to all keepers and their families along the coast.

SPRUCE HEAD

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cleveland of Camden entertained over the holiday at their cottage here, their guests being Mrs. Arau of Camden; Mr. and Mrs. David Mann, Ash Point; and Lee Mann of this place.

Visitors the past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Allard were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Birch, Mr. and Mrs. George Progin and Mr. and Mrs. Horace Teto, all of Fitchburg, Mass.

June Mann and Marie Allard have been ill with measles, but are recovered sufficiently to be up and about the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert King of Jamaica Plain, Mass., are spending a weeks vacation in the L. M. Tinney cottage and have as guest Joseph Kenney of Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wotton and two children of Hyde Park, Mass., are in the E. V. Shea cottage for two weeks.

Fred Batty, Jr. has completed his duties in the CCC Camp and has returned home from Bar Harbor.

Miss Elsie Frew of Lynn, N. Y., arrived here last Saturday and will visit with Misses Eleanor and Jeannette Morton of Ozone Park, N. Y., for two weeks at their summer home here.

There will be services in Union Chapel Sunday evening at 7:30. Helen Hyde Carlson of Rockland will conduct the meeting.

Revolutionary Pensioners

By Edward Killoch Gould, State Historian of Maine

Author of "Major-General Hiram G. Berry," "British and Tory Marauders on the Penobscot," "Storming the Heights, Maine's Embattled Farmers at Castine in the Revolution," "Revolutionary Soldiers and Sailors of Knox County, Maine, and Their Descendants" (Ms.), "Colonel Mason Wheaton, Revolutionary Officer and Captain of Industry."

These papers contain a rich store not only of personal, but of war history; detached statements and broken fragments, to be sure, but none the less interesting and real. They tell us in the very words of the actors in that war of Concord, Lexington and Bunker Hill; of the siege of Boston, of Ticonderoga and Crown Point, of Monmouth, White Plains, of Trenton and Valley Forge; of the battles of Saratoga and Yorktown and the surrenders of Burgoyne and Cornwallis; of the gallant, ill-starred attacks on Quebec, and the sufferings of the retreat from the frozen north. In justice to my associates in the Sons of the American Revolution, I feel that they should get the benefit of their generous financial outlay by having at least the sketches of the Revolutionary Pensioners published, and they are offered herewith.

(CHAPTER XVI.)

Aaron Davis of Warren came from Wrentham, Mass., worked at the joiners' trade and settled in the upper part of Warren. He had been a soldier in the Revolution, was present at the taking of Cornwallis, sustained several offices in the militia of W. F. ren and for several years before his death, received a pension from the Government.

He was born Oct. 2, 1762, and was a farmer. In his application for a pension he states that he enlisted Feb. 8, 1781 at Wrentham, Mass., in Capt. Hitchcock's company, Col. Joseph Vose's first Regiment Massachusetts line, and was afterwards transferred to Capt. John Mills company of the same regiment, in which he was appointed corporal. He continued to serve in this company as corporal until Oct. 28, 1783, when he was discharged from the service by Major Pettigill, then commanding the regiment. The regiment was then stationed in the Highlands on the Hudson river, New York.

June 20, 1820, when Aaron Davis applied for a pension, he states that his property consisted of 60 acres of land on which were a house and barn, two cows, one yoke of oxen, one horse 15 sheep, one hog, farming tools, valued at $8, furniture, consisting of two pine tables, and 12 old chairs. He states he owed $452 in debts. As a result of his application he was granted a pension of $40 per year. He was also granted a bounty for his Revolutionary service by the State of Maine. After the Revolution he served in the militia as lieutenant about 1798 and as captain about 1804 of Company E.

In the war of 1812, when the fort in St. George was taken possession of by a British force, the militia of the neighborhood was ordered under arms and moved to Camden to defend the town from an impending attack. Aaron Davis was chosen lieutenant of a company of volunteers, organized in Warren, from these who were by law exempt from military duty, to whom had been committed that town's quota of the arms furnished by government. On the alarm being sounded, this company mounted their horses and rode to Camden, reporting to Col. Thatcher, arriving about 10 o'clock in the evening. Some of these volunteers like the subject of this sketch had seen service in the army; others had held commissions in the militia, and yet others had scarcely done duty at a militia training.

During the night an alarm was raised that the British were preparing to land from their ships. The corps were paraded, loaded their muskets and stood prepared for action. It proved a false alarm, however, and the troops returned to their repose. The troops were reviewed next day by Major Gen. William King, afterwards first governor of Maine, and as the hostile fleet got under way and put to sea, the troops returned to Thomaston, and were discharged.

Aaron Davis died Aug. 17, 1840, on Aug. 22, 1843, his widow, Abigail, applied for a widow's pension and gives her age at that time as nearly 73 years. She was born Oct. 1, 1770 and died July 29, 1849, at the age of 78 years.

Alpheus Delano

Alpheus Delano of Friendship, was a farmer. June 2, 1777, he enlisted under Lieut. Lamb of Boston in Col. Henry Jackson's regiment, Massachusetts line, for the term of three years, and served until June, 1778, when he was honorably discharged. He attained the rank of sergeant. He applied for a pension and states that his property consists of 2 cows, 4 sheep, and old household furniture. His wife was 60 years old at the time he applied for a pension Aug. 8, 1820. He died March 9, 1826.

Nov. 10, 1836, his widow, Peggy or Margaret, then residing in Warren applies for a pension and states her age as 84 years. She was married to Alpheus Delano at Duxbury, Plymouth County, Mass., April 26, 1770, her maiden name being Peggy Sides. Andrew Robinson states he served with Alpheus in Capt. Plummer's Company in 1776 for 9 months, and he thinks Alpheus was a corporal. He was stationed the most of the term of 9 months, at Frederick Bradford's point in Friendship, as a guard with about a dozen other men, the company being scattered for guard duty in several places where most needed. After finishing this service, Alpheus went into the Revolutionary service and had a discharge but not in writing.

He received a bounty from the State of Maine for his Revolutionary War service. Col. Henry Jackson was an accomplished officer and made his regiment one of the best disciplined in the American army. While in this regiment, Alpheus took part in the desperate battle at Saratoga, which resulted in the surrender of General Burgoyne.

Returning to his home town, at the meeting of the inhabitants April 2, 1787, Alpheus Delano is chosen clerk of the plantation of Meduncook, and also a surveyor of highways. March 25, 1788, he is reelected clerk, and also on March 12, 1789, when the office of collector was added to that of clerk. Again he is reelected clerk March 25, 1790 and March 17, 1791, and at the meeting held March 6, 1799, he is chosen one of the surveyors of roads. We find him again in public office March 15, 1803, when he is elected as assessor. He was also chosen on the committee with Col. Benjamin Burton and Wm. Jameson to finish the meeting-house. On April 2, 1804, he was chosen surveyor of Goose River district.

Alpheus could not have prospered in his declining years as the town meeting of April 6, 1818, remitted his poll tax.

Hog reeves were elected or appointed at each yearly meeting, an office for which candidates were not numerous, so it was a favorite sport to oblige those recently married, to perform the duties of that office; it appears that Alpheus took his turn with others. A flash of humor at these usually grim and contentious gatherings.

MY GARDEN

[For The Courier-Gazette]

Let me tell you of a garden I would plant with my heart A garden of wondrous beauty That I'll pass no fellow by; I would have in it Sympathy, In beds so wide and long, There'd be so much to grow and spread, I could fill the world with song.

I would put Charity next to that On a trellis wide and high, With such cheerful words to guide it That I'll pass no fellow by. I must find a darkened corner To let Forgiveness in For the harsh and bitter words, My wayward brother's sin.

I shall save room for Blessings As I find them day by day, And share them with my neighbor As I meet him on the way. Here in the garden I would have For Hope a sunny place, For the harsh and bitter words, My wayward brother's sin.

I shall save room for Faithfulness As the daisies come and go, For without it I am much afraid My plan would fall to grow. Right next to that I'll put my love For neighbor, friend or foe, Then God will send me sunshine, I am sure to make it grow.

I would prune out all selfish thoughts As a farmer does his weeds, And in their place I'd nurture A way for beautiful deeds. I shall put no fence around it Because my garden's free, I want to share the good things That God has sent to me.

I would stand upon the highway Where all about is strife, And pass out my garden products To every walk of life. I will not keep my blossoms, For where the sod is thrown Or where the heart is silent— And the daisies all have grown.

But I'd give from out my garden To every one I meet, And hope that by so doing I have made them more sweet; So when my garden's gathered And I have no more to give, May the seed that I have planted In each kind memory live.

And may God send down his blessings Like abundant showers of rain, That my garden grow and flourish And I'll not have lived in vain. Margaret Ewell.
